Project Information

The humanities encompass the study of all our forms of human cultural expression: history, arts, literature, philosophy, religion, laws, cultural studies and languages. They encourage careful thought, in the process offering participants ways to inform themselves and consider multiple perspectives.

- History, anthropology, political science, archaeology, folklife and art history - the study of human social, political, and cultural development.
- Philosophy, ethics, and comparative religion – the contemplation of the meaning of life and the reasons for our thoughts and actions.
- Literature, languages, and linguistics – the exploration of how we communicate with each other, and how our ideas and thoughts on the human experience are expressed and interpreted.
- Jurisprudence – the study of the values and principles which inform our laws.

Project Description*

Provide a concise overview of the proposed project. What will the project do (e.g., this will be a two day festival featuring historical presentations, panel discussions, etc.)? Please use this space to describe any specifics of the project, such as content explanation about specific events or panels. (e.g., "Event 1 will look at _____")

Be sure to identify how your project will use the humanities to explore particular topics, questions, or values.

Character Limit: 1200

Project Audience & Event(s)*

Who is your intended audience for this program? (Seniors, K-12 students, history buffs?) Please provide the title, location, date and time for the public event(s) that will be part of your program.

Character Limit: 500

Project Impact*

Why is this project important for your community? What community need or issue will it serve?

Character Limit: 900

Mission match: Expanding the Wyoming narrative*

Wyoming Humanities seeks to expand the Wyoming narrative to promote engaged communities. How does your proposed program do this?

What do we mean by “Expanding the Wyoming Narrative to Promote Engaged Communities”?

From our interactions with citizens and cultural organizations around Wyoming, we find there is a need and desire to explore the lesser known narratives that make Wyoming a unique place and to investigate pre-conceived notions about our past and present. This exploration helps to elevate voices from diverse backgrounds and makes connections within and across groups, from those who share a cultural heritage or interest to those who live in the same town or region.

In other words, Wyoming Humanities is especially committed to funding projects that explore our state's unknown stories and/or take a closer look at well-known stories. In the process, these projects will ideally make or strengthen connections within and between groups of people in Wyoming.

Character Limit: 900

Project Outcome*

Given your answer to the previous two questions, once your project is done, what changes in your audience's behavior, knowledge, attitude, etc. do you hope to see? (e.g., "After visiting this exhibit, visitors will have a deeper understanding of the formation of the Wind River Reservation, which will in turn help them to appreciate the integral roles the Eastern Shoshone and Northern Arapaho nations have played in the history of our state.")

Character Limit: 900

OPTIONAL: Promotional Materials

Please feel welcome to upload an event flyer or social media post that provides the title, location, date and time for the public event(s) that will be part of your program. The document may be either in .xlsx or .docx or .pdf format.
